

Catherine let them know that the castle cannot be lit up every night due to the cost of the electricity, but they would be turned on for special occasions.)

Darleen and I met Sandra McCallum in Glasgow the day before we headed home and she took us to Troon where she lives as well as Ayr and the birthplace of Robbie Burns. Beautiful scenery and she was a very good travel guide!

But all good things come to an end – including this letter! Haha

It was a great trip and I hope that I have been able to share the major events with you all.

Love, Margaret
